Ranger in "Breed of Courage"

Those who love intelligent and beautiful dogs and enjoy watching them in action on the screen will have their opportunity Sunday and Monday to see Ranger, F. B. O's famous dog-star, in his latest picture, "Breed of Courage" at the Lomita Theatre.

Ranger, who is said to be one of the cleverest and most gentle stars of the Hollywood canine colony, is presented in this picture with two other movie dogs, Nitch-amoose, leading lady, and Ozoma, the heavy. This idea of portraying the "eternal triangle" entirely with dogs is said to be unique in the annals of the screen.

John Twist is the author of the story introducing this new angle in dog pictures, and it was adapted for the screen by F. A. E. and Mutt and Jeff in "Playing with Fire."

I. H. Hawkins Reports Purchases of Over $40,000 at Low Figures

I. H. Hawkins of the firm of Hawkins and Oberg, proprietors of the Sample Store in Torrance and other department stores throughout the Southland, has returned from a buying trip to Eastern and mid-Western districts. Mr. Hawkins made extensive purchases in New York, Boston, St. Louis, Kenosha, Wis., and several cities of the south, buying over $40,000 worth of merchandise—a good share of which will be shipped to the Torrance store for sale here, he states.

Mr. Oberg, who is actively in charge of the Sample Store at Torrance, states that Mr. Hawkins secured some phenomenally fortunate "buys", which will mean unusual savings to local people.

Gas Heating Is Clean
Odorless—Healthful—Economical

Here Are Two Very Good Gas Heating Systems

Andrews Wall Heater

Heats, Ventilates, Circulates and Radiates. Brings in fresh air from the outside, heats it and radiates it throughout the room. Takes up no floor space and is easily installed in new or old houses. Positive fireproof, non-toxic, clean, healthful, and economical on gas.

Ward Sealed Floor Furnace

Draws cold air from your floors, sterilizes and heats it, and then returns it to the rooms without loss of oxygen. There can be no escape of raw gas into the rooms, because the burners are inclosed in a separate, asbestos-sealed, cast-iron box. All fumes from the burned gas pass OUTSIDE THE HOUSE thru a vent. This type is very easy to install in old houses as well as economical for new homes.

One-Tone Gingham Favored for Tots' School and Play Wear

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

It has been but a few days since the familiar "Oh dear, there goes the school bell" refrain started ringing through the house. To mother the "call to arms" is also sounded, which means a rush to the sewing room, to make up school clothes fast as machine wheel will whirl.

It is at this time that mothers find gingham their best friend. For school the child needs a fabric that will stand frequent tubbings. The beauty of gingham is that it always emerges without losing its original freshness and, best of all, it "wears like iron." A child may outgrow a gown of gingham, but seldom does she outwear it.

In making up gingham the material should always be shrunk. It may be put through water and dried in the sun without injury to color or fabric.

It adds to the prestige of gingham this season, the fact that it comes in such lovely one-tone effects as well as in the staple checks and plaids. The little girl in the picture is wearing a plain one-tone gingham in a soft leaf green shade trimmed with darker green and white. The frock is charmingly smocked in green mercerized thread to match the darker tone.

Color schemes which employ several shades as demonstrated in the instance of this attractive gingham frock, are all the more a hint to sewing mothers.

This theory that two colors are better than one, or many degrees of the same color, if you please, is worthy of being put into practice, not only for washable gingham and the like, but in making up wool crepes, jersey cloths and crepe de chinos as well.

The straight-down-from-the-shoulder line is the favorite styling. Considerable fagoting is used, often done with very tight threads. A one-tone with a plaid gingham is often fagoted together.

Famous Singer to Head Orpheum Bill

Isa Kremer, who in a short space of time has become internationally famous as a singer of ballads and folk songs, will be the super-headline attraction at the Orpheum starting Sunday matinee, Nov. 6. Miss Kremer appeared here just once before—two years ago in concert. She possesses a rich, operatic voice and her songs are rendered in seven different languages. She has appeared with many great opera stars and on the concert stage, but her appearance at the Orpheum next week will mark her debut before two-a-day audiences. She is also an exclusive Brunswick record artist. Leon Rosenbloom will be her accompanist for her first vaudeville engagement.

Other interesting features on the new bill will be Russ Brown and Jean Whitaker in "A Laugh or Two" by Al Boasberg; Carrie and Eddy, supported by a large company, in a miniature revue produced by George Choo; Johnny Hyman and Harry Waiman and his Debutantes.
